NEED TRAINED TEACHERS NOW

DR. FRED KELLER TELLS OF INCREASE IN COLLEGES.

SCHOOLS HOLD KEY

But Education Is Not For Sole Purpose Of Financial Gain He Reminds Students In Address.

"The call of the hour is for better trained teachers," was the keynote of an address delivered by Dr. Fred Keller of the education department of the State Teachers College to the students of the summer term during the regular assembly hour in the College auditorium this morning.

A remarkable increase from 50,000 in 1890 to 250,000 at the present time in the number of college students asking teacher training work was shown by Dr. Keller. The general subject of the address was "Shop Talk."

The speech was dissertation on present day problems in world education and relation of the teachers to the solution of the situation. The listeners were congratulated on the great advance made in the ideals and ethics of the teaching profession in the last three decades and they were urged to put an even greater earnestness and conviction of their power to do good into their teaching practices.

Dr. Keller cited statistics showing that in 1890 the total number of persons in the United States doing college work preparing them especially for the work of teaching was 50,000. In the early years of the twentieth century the number had increased to 135,000. At the present time there are approximately 250,000 students in the colleges of the country taking teacher training work out of a total college enrollment in the country of 550,000.

This great increase in professional training work was explained by the speaker this morning by the great rise in the wages in the profession in the last ten years and to the relatively small increase in the living expense of the teachers. The teacher today is also a man of more note in his community now than in times past, according to Dr. Keller.

"If this country produces a surplus of trained minds now there will be necessarily be an overflow of those people into the Latin America where where they will go for larger financial gains, and Latin America will send us in return her surplus of unskilled laborers," was the statement made concerning the danger arising from the mistaken idea that higher education is for the sole purpose of enabling one to get a larger financial income and getting out of the commoner tasks of life. According to Dr. Keller this is a great educational problem which America must solve by training people to get the most out of life in a moral way as well as in the economic way.

The three things which were given the audience this morning as the factors in overcoming the troubles were a fuller spirit of democracy, and an adequate financial situation for education in the country, and a trained teaching force. To prove his point Dr. Keller recalled the statement made by the president of Czeko-Slovakia that he did not envy America for her wealth or her resources so much as for her public schools system. The president said that with such a system as that in his country he could solve the troubles of his people.

In his closing remarks he admonished the teachers never to forget that their work involves the touching of children's lives and the moulding of the characters of tomorrow. He said that people are realizing this more than ever before and that the call of the hour is for better training of teachers.

Before Dr. Keller's address it was announced that a musical program will be given at the assembly hour next Wednesday and that on Wednesday of the following week the program will be of a patriotic nature.

Harry A. Miller of the public speaking department of the College will give a program of reading of his own selection sometime during the summer, according to an announcement made this morning by President Lamkin. Mr. Miller has given readings before the students of summer sessions in past years and the announcement this morning was greeted with loud applause from the students.

President Lamkin in a few remarks at the beginning of the assembly hour this morning said that it had been reported that the college had fallen short of its last year's enrollment by about 320 but that it was only about 100 students short. He said that most of this decrease was in the number of high school students. He also stated that it was the experience of the other colleges of the state except the University, that the attendance was less this summer quarter, that Kirksville has about 125 students less and Warrensburg about 200 short, according to the latest reports.

Eighty head purebred Poland China hogs, property of the county farm, fed by George Brown, superintendent of the farm, were sold this morning on the St. Joseph market for $12.50 per hundred weight, just 10 cents under the top. The hogs average 225 pounds.

A light lunch will be served at noon. The mothers of the pupils are also invited to assist.

Number of Thirty-One Injured Cannot Recover, Physicians Say—Investigations Are Under Way.

Hackettstown, N. J., June 17.—The death toll in the Lackawanna train wreck mounted slowly today as three investigations got under way to fix responsibility for the catastrophe.

A $500 CHECK TO ROAD FUND

MRS. MAUDE HAMBLIN MAKES DONATION TODAY.

A $50 PLEDGE GIVEN

Popular Subscription Drive for Improvement of Roads Leading to Cemeteries Will Continue.

The Cemetery Road Improvement fund was given a big boost this morning when it was announced that Mrs. Maude Hamblin, 115 Lawn avenue, had swelled the pledges by contributing a check for $500. This is the largest donation, the second day of the campaign, to be received by solicitors in a drive to raise a maximum amount of $4,600 by the Maryville Cemetery Road Improvement Association by popular subscription.

Depending upon the total sum raised by popular subscription the Cemetery Road Improvement Association is backing a move to improve the roads leading from the highways to the four cemeteries in Maryville. Solicitors will be out all week in this campaign. As soon as the solicitors are named from the different organizations they are designated a certain section of the city to cover in a house-to-house campaign by John G. Mutz at the Bee Hive store, where he has a plat of the city.

Although only a few were out yesterday in the interest of this move the drive was given an added impetus by a check for $50, received by Murray Welling, assigned from the American Legion, to solicit funds.

Others who have been added to the list of solicitors are Joe Cornell, H. B. Cushman, Frank Orcutt, W. D. Williams, Paul Ward, Harry King, T. H. Leet and P. C. Yeary. These were appointed from the Odd Fellows lodge.

The solicitors from St. Mary's Church will probably be appointed late this afternoon. Nick Sturm, who has charge of the appointments from this church, has been out of the city and had not designated the solicitors at noon today.

ACTRESS IS WHOLE SHOW

MISS GAY MacLAREN COMING HERE NEXT WEEK.

TO GIVE 2 PROGRAMS

Local Persons Says She Is An Artist of First Rank—Goes to Ames for Seventh Time.

Definite announcement was made at the College this morning that Miss Gay MacLaren would be in Maryville next Wednesday and Thursday for two entertainments.

Since it has been known that Miss MacLaren was coming to Maryville many have asked who she is and what she does. She is known as a dramatic artist extraordinary but Miss Blanche Dow of the College faculty, in speaking of Miss MacLaren at assembly this morning, said she could be better called an actress.

Miss MacLaren presents an entire play, she is a whole show herself. She attends the leading plays on Broadway four or five times and then produces the whole show from the leading actress or actor right down to the bellboy or doorkeeper. She has in her repertoire about thirty of the most successful broadway plays. This is a decided innovation in the dramatic field and only Gay MacLaren has been able to accomplish the feat successfully.

Several Maryville people have seen her in the East and all say she is truly an artist of the first rank. She has received the highest praise from the critics wherever she has appeared. It is interesting to know that she goes to Ames, Ia., this summer for the seventh consecutive time and that she has a standing contract to give a program every time she passes through Cedar Falls, Ia. For the two programs here Miss MacLaren will receive over $500.

The sale of tickets will be in charge of the Y. W. C. A. Miss Laura Margaret Raines, in assembly this morning, urged the student body to show their school spirit and attend these two performances.

College Boy Gets in Bad With Deputy Rasco

Operated Car With Only One Iowa License Plate—Is Released Upon Payment of Costs.

No college student can operate an automobile with only one state license tag and defy the officers in this county, at least it can't get by Deputy Sheriff John Rasco's attention.

Robert A. Shields of Washington Ia., student of Grinnell College, Grinnell, Ia., was in Barnard today putting on an aluminum wear demonstration. He had only one Iowa state license on his car and was ordered to put his car up until further orders by John Rasco, deputy sheriff there. The student did as ordered but ran his car out again and Deputy Rasco placed him under arrest and brought him to Maryville early this afternoon. Shields claimed he lost his license tag.

Prosecuting Attorney George Pat Wright brought charges against Shields for operating a motor vehicle with only one license tag. However, he was released upon payment of costs and accompanied Deputy Rasco back to Barnard this afternoon.

Deputy Rasco says that he was not given due credit in the newspapers for bringing Frank Moss of Rock Port, up to Maryville Sunday morning.

George McMurry and Lester Reaksecker went to Kansas City this morning on business.

AUSTIN LOSES HIS POSITION

FORMER SECRETARY OF ROAD COMMISSION DISMISSED.

NO REASON IS GIVEN

Charges of Breaking Law in Furniture Dealings are Dropped—Gary Urges Tax Support.

St. Louis, June 17.—Edwin S. Austin, secretary of the Missouri state highway commission, until his suspension May 27, was dismissed from the body during its sesion here late yesterday.

Austin had let a $300 contract for office furniture to James R. Davis of Nevada, Mo., several months ago and on May 27, Theodore Gary, head of the commission, ordered Austin suspended for a breach of the law governing the commissioners. He maintained that it was illegal to award a contract within the commission.

Contains Disputed Clause.

Attorney General Otto thought differently and the proceedings yesterday took cognizance of his decision by dropping the charges concerning the contract award.

The motion to drop the charges, however, contained a clause terminating Austin's services with the commission. It passed with only one dissenting vote.

No reason was given for the dismissal and Austin was not permitted to defend himself. He appeared at the meeting with Former Supreme Judge Fred S. Williams as counsel, but made no comment when permitted to defend himself only on the charges of the alleged illegal contract which the commissioners admitted they were ready to drop.

Should be Kept Intact.

Previous to the hearing and in connection with the approval of road contracts Chairman Gary warned that the people of Missouri who last year approved a 2-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax for road maintenance, must be aroused to the necessity of keeping the fund intact.

The new tax went into effect January 1, this year, and the revenue it is producing is exceeding expectations. While the last legislature authorized the expenditure of $4,000,000 from this anticipated tax for the next biennial period indications now are that at the end of the period there will be remaining $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 unexpended from this source. It was with special reference to possible diversion of the fund, possibly to the building of additional roads or to other purposes that Chairman Gary sounded the warning.

"We should begin now," he said, "to impress the people of the state that all the revenue derived from the gasoline must go to maintenance. This revenue may reach $6,000,000 a year by 1930 but all of it will be needed."

The commission, consisting of Chairman Gary and Murray Carleton, St. Louis; C. D. Mathews of Sikeston, and James R. Davis of Nevada, approved awards of contracts for the building of 58.77 miles of road, to cost $1,554,537.71.

BRITISH ARE NEUTRAL

In Case Civil War Breaks Out In China—Disturbances Break Out Again at Shanghai.

Shanghai, June 17. — Armed with hatchets, a Chinese mob tonight assaulted and perhaps fatally wounded a British police sergeant within the foreign settlement.

Chefoo, June 17.—Under the shadow of the guns of the United States Asiatic fleet, which is summering here, students were organizing anti-British and anti-Japanese demonstrations and threatening a boycott. No disorders have occurred as yet, but it is understood naval plans have been made for full protection of foreign lives and property in the event of disturbances.

Following a mass meeting in the native city, 15,000 Chinese stormed through the streets shouting frenzied anti-foreign threats.

Reports that the Canadian note was a "protest" were denied by the state department and it was indicated that a reply by the United States would not be necessary.

HOT WEATHER TAX TALK.

Discussions on possible decreases in federal taxation were reopened just prior to the date on which the June installment of income taxes becomes due and, as on several former occasions, the intent seems to be to cheer us up while we are settling with the Internal Revenue Collector. At any rate, it is still more than five months before Congress is scheduled to meet again. Nothing can be done until that time, and whatever promises are held out now, many things may happen before December.

Senator Underwood hopes that the moderate income tax rates prevailing in 1916 can speedily be restored. As the government's interest charge on borrowings alone totals almost as much as all its expenditures in the years before 1916, such a reduction in the income tax would mean the retention of divers other forms of taxation, some of which bear heavily on business. However, it is with a special view to relieving business and business men of a part of their present burdens that Secretary Mellon's tentative tax reduction is planned.

Need enough exists for such relief. General business conditions as evidenced by freight car loadings, motor car and radio sales, activity in the building industry and all its allied industries and by other reliable indexes are, it is true, highly satisfactory. However, there is a depression in the coal industry affecting consumption and consequently sales in large areas. The manufacturing and merchandising devoted to some of the great staples feel the effects of orders placed with caution and of some reluctance in accumulating reserves of supplies. There is no doubt that business of many forms is being held back because of the shackles of high taxation.

Supposing, for instance, that the enormous influence on general trade conditions of building on an unusual scale in the cities and of road construction in the country for which the states are spending hundreds of millions should be withdrawn two or three seasons hence; what might be the result? Undoubtedly looking ahead to such a time Mr. Mellon proposes that the surtax shall be decreased to about 20 per cent and that sums less than $12,000 or $15,000 shall be relieved of any surtax, instead of sums below $10,000, as now.

That a similar purpose of aiding business is to be found in his proposal for abolishing all federal taxes on inheritances may not be as apparent. However, on estates largely invested in business enterprises, this tax often operates to deplete needed capital, to make borrowings necessary and even to occasion some reorganization. Mr. Smoot's suggestion that the Federal Government give the states a monopoly in the levy of inheritances, while the states give the Federal Government a monopoly in levying income taxes, is interesting. It might not be so difficult to abolish federal inheritance taxes, but Mr. Coolidge evidently does not believe that it is going to be so easy to persuade states which have tasted of the fruits of income taxes to surrender those fruits entirely to Uncle Sam.

In divers sections of the Union the state inheritance tax, plus the federal inheritance tax, takes one-fourth of estates of a certain size. And with the increase in living costs, our ideas as to estates formerly regarded as affluent as well as our ideas as to estates formerly regarded as of comfortable amount have undergone considerable change. Of estates now to be considered as affording only a modest competence, inheritance taxes often take so much as to create serious problems for dependents.

Tax discussions are by no means so premature, if only they can serve to harmonize views and lead to the passage of the new program without delay at the next session.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The New Fourth.

By Angelo Patri.

Just what does "truly American" mean?

To me it is the preservation to all men of what we have declared to be self-evident rights: the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. If that means anything at all, it means tolerance, for each of us must be happy in his own way. It means that we respect the rights and the feelings of other people to the extent that we never intrude upon them, erring always upon the side of generosity. It means a decent respect for the people of the world, a helpful, understanding appreciation of their difficulties, a ready sympathy with their distress. And most of all it means a dedication of each American to the principles of his faith as proclaimed by that Declaration.

This idea, this quality, this philosophy of living which we call American is not gained by picnicking once a year. It must be taught our youth and be practised by them, as Roosevelt demonstrated in his own family.

When the flags rise on the morning of the Fourth, I would have them signal a day set apart for the realization of the spirit of America. I would take the children to the nearest shrine of patriotism and there tell the story of the struggle and sacrifice that was the price of this nation's life. I would impress upon them the duty of carrying on the crusade their forefathers began.

But the crowning glory of the day should be the reception of its new citizens gathered from the youth of the land. I would have in each town a gathering of those young folk who reached their twenty-first birthday during the calendar year and confer the dignity of citizenship upon them with fitting ceremony.—From The Delineator for July.

Many More Dairy Cows Will Be in Demand in State

Fourteen thousand, two hundred and fifty-six more dairy cows will be needed in Missouri by 1930, according to the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. This number will be required to take care of the normal needs of the state's growing population unless Missouri farmers adopt the double-barrelled policy of breeding only from pure-bred sires and then feeding their progeny balanced rations.

An average cow produces about four thousand pounds of milk a year containing 160 pounds of butterfat, the Institute states, or just about enough to meet the requirements of a family of four with milk, butter, cheese, ice cream and condensed milk. A daughter of a high production sire, fed in accordance with the methods advocated by the state agricultural college, will produce around six thousand pounds, and her offspring under the same conditions in turn should not find it impossible to bring her production to the eight thousand pound mark per year.

Should Missouri farmers adopt the advanced practices outlined above, only about half of the 14,256 cows would be needed to supply the state's dairy products needs five years from now, says the Institute, basing its conclusions on figures from hundreds of cow test association reports. Not only would the smaller number of quality cows make twice as much clear profit per cow above feed costs, but their owners would still have a ten-dollar gold piece per cow over for good measure.

Story of Human Fly Wins H. Croy Prize

Columbia, Mo., June 17.—It was the pathetic, gripping descriptive story of the death of a "human fly" here a year ago, which won for Foster B. Hailey, student in Journalism the $100 Homer Croy prize offered for the best piece of writing during the year by any School of Journalism student. The story was written as a news story for the Missourian and was much commented upon by newspaper circles as a fine piece of news writing.

Selection of Medium Is All Important in Conducting Community Advertising

The following is the thirteenth installment of the article on "Community Advertising" written for the Democrat-Forum by D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The determination of the mediums to be employed in community advertising is not a matter of guess work. The first step is to determine who are the logical buyers of the goods you have to offer. The average community leaders is not versed in advertising practices and therefore needs professional assistance. Men who know must be employed in assisting them in their community advertising. In 1924 more than 3 million dollars was spent for community advertising. No two community advertising problems are just alike.

William Allen White, well known editor and novelist, says that the Chamber of Commerce in American cities is the leading exponent of altruism. He further says: "The Chamber of Commerce modifies the innate cussedness of the average selfish, hard-boiled, pie-ayunish, penny-pinching, narrow-guaged human porker, and lifts up his snout; makes him see further than his home, his business and his personal interest and sets him rooting for his community. The Chamber of Commerce is giving the first lesson in practical Christianity to millions of savages in America. A man, no matter how greedy, cannot work a year upon any moderately important committee of his town's Chamber of Commerce without being a better father, husband, citizen and brother."

If there is dissension, there can be no progress. The Chamber of Commerce must sell the community to itself.

The most important cog in the Chamber of Commerce Wheel is the Secretary. He is a student and workman in the laboratory of human life, a teacher, a leader, a civic engineer, and an executive who serves unselfishly the best interests of the organization and the community it represents.

OUR BIG 13TH ANNIVERSARY SALE

Purchasing Is Certain To Be Active At Such Extremely Low Prices

We're just 13 years old and we're going to celebrate the event with a genuine store birthday party, only instead of our guest bringing the presents we're going to give the presents to our guests in the form of birthday bargains. Here is the sale unique in the history of this store, and it is going to be an eye opener. We've done everything we know how to do to prepare to show our appreciation of your past patronage.

BLOTTING OT FORMER PRES

There is always a big element of chance in starting a store. The proprietor is doing all the guessing, he guesses what the people will want and how much they will want, and he guesses as to how much the people will give him and whether he can make a go of it. It is seldom a sure thing. When as a fact, time has estimated our judgment and friends every where support us, we feel that we should acknowldge our appreciation of this support. You people of Maryville and vicinity have been very good to us We are glad we are here and hope to spend many more birthdays with you. It is our intention to do all we can to deserve them.

Severe Damage Done by Storm in Iowa

Waterloo, Ia., June 17.—A terrific wind storm swept over northeastern Iowa, early today, according to reports received here. Great property damage was done at Greene and other towns. Buildings were reported damaged, trees uprooted and fields inundated by torrential rains.

Secrecy Is Demanded on Moroccan Report

Three Communist Members of Commission Would Not Agree and are Forcibly Ejected from Meeting.

Paris, June 17.—Three communist deputies refused to agree to keep secret Premier Painleve's report on the Moroccan situation today and were forcibly expelled from the conference room where the French Moroccan commission was in session.

Painleve, who is also minister of war, has just returned from an inspection trip to Morocco where France and Spain are making but little headway in their fighting against the Riffs.

Before beginning his report, Painleve demanded secrecy. The communist members of the commission refused and Painleve would not go on with his report until they had been forcibly ejected.

Village Blacksmith Is Passing Career

East St. Louis, June 17.—(United Press)—The "Passing of the blacksmith" is the latest dramatic episode in the drama of civilization here.

For years Barney Clark was the "smithy" of the village of Winstanley. When East St. Louis took over the village Clark still maintained his smithing shop.

Recently, however, civilization dealt its last blow at the picturesque—and somewhat unusual now—shop.

As result Clark has applied to the city for permission to install a gasoline-filling station on the site of his former shop.

Everybody Here Could Ride If All Autos Assembled

If all the automobiles and trucks in this city were assembled and every person living within the confines of the city limits were desiring to go on a trip, some sort of a pilgrimage—doesn't make any difference what kind, just so they were all going to ride in motor vehicles—everybody could be provided with a seat and nobody left behind.

At least this is what can be computed from the figures obtained at the city hall this morning from the book of city automobiles licenses issued since February 1.

According to this little receipt book of licenses issued there are 995 trucks and automobiles in the city, and Chief of Police Bernard Dougan says that there are yet more licenses to be issued. Thus, with the population estimated at 5,000 in round figures this gives a ratio of one motor vehicle to every five persons.

Last year there were about 1,082 city motor vehicle license tags issued, and with the number standing at nearly 1,000 at the present time, the number of cars in the city will undoubtedly show an increase over last year. After August 1 the half rate on license tags is allowed.

Rummaging around on one of the desks at the city hall the receipt book for dog licenses issued up to present date this year was found. According to the city ordinance licenses on all dogs kept within the city limits that are three months of age or over are supposed to be taken out by the owners.

This little receipt book shows that licenses have been taken out for—only 206 dogs.

"Tess" Has Cast of Stellar Merit

It is no vain boast when Marshall Neilan claims to have selected one of the most auspicious casts ever gathered together in one photoplay for his production of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," the Metro-Goldwyn picture to be shown at the Empire Theater tonight only.

Blanche Sweet and Conrad Nagel play the leading roles of the filmed Thomas Hardy novel. Stuart Holmes, one of the most convincing villains on the screen, plays an important part; George Fawcett, judged by many to be the best character actor working before the camera, Courtenay Foote, Joseph J. Dowling, who is remembered vividly for his marvelous performance in "The Miracle Man," Victory Bateman, Jane Mercer and others portray the familiar Hardy characters to perfection.

Father Flannagan's Boys of Omaha will be here tomorrow.

Losing Gridiron Game Makes Stellar Player

Ivan Runyan of Princeton Works His Way Through School, Stars In Football and is Honor Student.

Princeton, Mo., June 17.—(United Press)—When Princeton High School played a losing football game four years ago, Ivan Runyan immediately decided on a better education for himself.

A strapping lad, who for several years was a section gang employee, Runyan entered high school and started the study of mathematic, English and football. He was successful in all.

Besides being one of the outstanding high school football players in the state Runyan this spring graduated from Princeton High School with honors. He had worked his way through school, also.

He will enter the University of Missouri this fall, attempting to add further learning in the class room and on the gridiron. Missouri University coaches already are bragging about him as he scales 6 feet 6 inches and has the necessary weight for the height.

Man Talks Bandits Out of Hold-Up

Jefferson City, Mo., June 17.—(United Press)—Hermann Kramer, a shoe merchant, talked two bandits out of holding him up.

The roughly clad men approached Kramer and threatened him with a pistol.

"I am not going to be robbed and you are just fixing to get yourself in trouble" Kramer told them. "I don't think you have nerve enough to shoot me anyway."

With that Kramer walked away and the bandits followed him two blocks, brandishing the revolver and shouting curses. Then they left.

William Coon and Lloyd Steenberger are in jail charged with the robbery.

Dr. Heryford in Hospital.

Dr. W. B. Heryford was admitted to St. Francis hospital last night for an examination and treatment.

Chicago Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, June 17.—Grain futures trading underwent a complete revisal of form in today's trading on the Chicago Board of Trade. Prices finished sharply higher.

The generally expected recovery from an oversold condition developed in wheat. For the first time in a week the trade ignored crop news. Buyers deluged the pit with buying orders. Foreigners, it appeared, had awakened to the need of purchasing grain to tide them over to the next harvest. No official reports greatly increased wheat purchasers.

Winter belt conditions were improved by overnight precipitation. Commission house buying evelated corn prices. The market was under direct influence of wheat.

Buying in oats was due to activities in other grain.

Provision started higher early but dropped to the previous close on late profit taking.

CATTLE STRONG; HOGS HIGHER; SHEEP STEADY.

Kansas City Stock Yards, June 15:

Last week's decline in prices, together with general rains in the pasture area cut down receipts of cattle today and the market ruled stronger, spots higher. Fully 50 per cent of the arrivals was grass fat classes and stockers and feeders and this left the part that showed any dry feed comparatively small. Choice kinds were scarce. Since the middle of last week, hog prices have advanced steadily. Today's gain was 15 to 25 cents and the general market is on a $12 basis. Sheep and lambs were steady at last week's decline.

Today's Receipts.

Receipts today were 12,000 cattle, 11,000 hogs and 5,000 sheep, compared with 15,000 cattle, 10,000 hogs and 5,000 sheep a week ago and 15,725 cattle, 9,875 hogs and 9,450 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle.

Good to choice fat cattle were scarce today and the few here that showed any material amount of feed ruled strong spots slightly higher. Good yearlings and choice medium and light weight steers sold at $10.25 to $11.00. Nothing prime was available. Most of the plain to medium fed steers brought $8.50 to $9.75. Grass fat steers sold at $4.50 to $7.25. Grass fat cattle in the average were only plain to fair in quality. The movement of pastured cattle is getting under way, and while the first shipments have arrived, they are not as good as those that will come later. The medium to fairly good classes of cows and heifers were 15 to 25 cents higher, and other classes generally steady. Fed heifers and mixed yearlings were scarce. Veal calves and bulls were steady.

Stockers and Feeders.

Though 15 to 25 cents higher than last week's close, prices for stockers and feeders were still 35 to 40 cents lower than a week ago. Indications that the good condition of the corn crop will bring an improved demand for thin cattle.

Hogs.

Hog prices have advanced steadily since the middle of last week. Today's gain of 15 to 25 cents took the market 50 to 60 cents above last week's low point and established quotations well above the $12 level. The top price was $12.40 and bulk of sales $12.10 to $12.35. Light lights sold at $11.25 to $11.65, packing sows $10.75 to $11.25 and stock hogs and pigs $11 to $11.50.

Sheep and Lambs.

Though trade in sheep and lambs was active prices ruled no more than steady with last week's close. Native lambs sold at $13 to $14.25 and Colorado lambs up to $15. Some plain ewes sold at $5.60. No wethers or yearlings arrived.

Horses and Mules.

Receipts of horses and mules continue too small to test extent of demand. Prices were nominally unchanged.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT KANSAS CITY

By Kansas City Livestock Exchange.

General rains since the middle of last week checked the marketing of grass cattle, and with only small supplies of fed cattle available total receipts have shown a material decrease. Arrivals in Kansas City today were only 8,000 cattle and 2,000 calves, the smallest run on any Tuesday this year. Chicago reported only 6,000, the first meager supply this season. The market is not only developing strength but the general rains have put pasture men in a stronger position and insured sufficient advancement in the corn crop condition to bring increased demand for stockers and feeders. The well balanced outlet for all kinds and classes, which has been lacking for some time past, seems to be developing.

Arrivals of grass fat and range cattle continue sufficient to indicate that the runs are fairly well started, and will increase with the advancing season, however the factor of pressure from dry weather has been removed, temporarilly at least, and from now on offerings will be well distributed. July receipts are normally much larger than in June and doubtless that will be the case this year. The diminishing supply of fed cattle will provide a good opening for the marketing of double summered-wintered Kansas steers.

Monday best cattle ruled stronger, and others barely steady. Today a general advance of 10 to 15 cents was quoted, in some cases more. Because of the small supply of good fed steers buyers directed the early trade to them at the advance. Some 1140 pound prime steers sold at $11.50, as high as any time in the past two weeks. Other choice yearlings, light and medium weight steers brought $10.75 to $11.25. Some fed steers straight from New Mexico weighing 941 pounds sold at $10.60. The bulk of the fed steers brought $9.50 to $11. After these were cleared up trade in grass fat classes was active. Sales ranged from $4.25 to $7.50. Prices indicate the wide difference in quality.

Practically all classes of butcher cows and heifers are 15 to 25 cents higher for the week. Choice to prime kinds were scarce. Prime heifers are quoted at $10.50 to $11, and prime cows $7.50 to $8.50. Medium to good cows are selling at $4.50 to $5.50, and the same class of heifers $6 to $7.50. Veal calves were lower, best selling at $8 to $8.50.

Trade in stockers and feeders is showing a more active turn but the quality of the offerings remained plain and some orders were unfilled. When the buying side find larger supplies offered the mid-summer trade will open up.

The hog market continued the advance started the middle of last week. Today prices were up 10 cents, making a gain of 65 to 75 cents since last Wednesday and taking the general market above the 12 cent level. Today's top price was $12.50, and the bulk of the 170 to 300-pound classes sold at $12.20 to $12.45. The 150 to 170-pound weights brought $11.75 to $12.30, and 130 to 145 pounds $11.50 to $11.85.

Sheep and lambs are 25 to 50 cents higher than last week with receipts below normal. Practically all the offerings were native lambs that sold at $14 to $14.65 and some shorn ewes at $5.50 to $6. Breeding ewes are quoted at $7 to $8. Receipts will continue light.

Bearcats to Play Ex-Board of Directors

Match Scheduled at the Country Club Tomorrow Afternoon—Close Game Is Expected.

What has the aspects of being a close golf match and of interest to the fans at the Country Club will take place tomorrow is between the "Bearcats" and former directors of the Country Club.

The four golfers comprising the Bearcat team are Cel W. Lamkin, president of the College; H. Frank Lawrence, athletic director; W. F. Phares, president of the board of regents; and Luther A. Richman, voice instructor at the College.

The members from the last year's board of directors who will meet the Bearcats are F. P. Reuillard, Ed Keck, James Todd and Harvey Haines.

A big gallery is expected for this match.

Noted H. S. Athlete Will Enter Mo. Uni.

Columbia, Mo., June 17.—Watching the high school football team at Princeton, Mo., play a losing game caused Ivan S. Runyan to give up his job as a section gang laborer and enroll in the school that he might help carry the football team to victory. He not only succeeded in his football mission but was graduated this spring as honor student after working his way to pay all his expenses. He was an all-around student and athlete putting himself in line to class with the University of Missouri's football captains who for the last six years all have been honor students and winners of scholastic glories. Runyan has already enrolled at the University and expects to work his way through his course in the School of Law. He is more than six feet tall.

Timely Rains Improve Farming Conditions

Week's Weather Was Ideal for Corn—Bulk of Wheat Reported In Good Condition.

Plenty of warmth and sunshine with timely and generous to copious general rains markedly improved agricultural conditions in all of Missouri during the week ending Tuesday morning, June 16. The plentiful and timely moisture was especially helpful in the southeastern part of the state where the main crops were beginning to suffer and lesser crops had seriously deteriorated. The total rainfall for the week ranged from one to over 4 inches the heaviest amounts where most needed. There were no damaging downpours except Doniphan, Ripley County, where more than 6 inches fell in less than 8 hours. The rainfall for this season has nearly caught up with the seasonal normal, and agricultural conditions in Missouri are satisfactory.

Aside from a relativelly few complaints of thin wheat, and some local fly damage, the bulk of wheat crop is reported to be in good condition and making satisfactory progress. Harvest is well under way in southern, and is just beginning in central sections, and about a week ahead of the normal. Generally heads are well filled. The oat crop is heading short but a fair crop is promised.

The week's weather was about ideal for corn; the late planted and replanted had a late start, but the crop as a whole has good color and making wonderful growth, while the fields are mostly clean and well cultivated. On a relatively small per cent of light soils in the southeastern counties plants were beginning to curl in the middle of the day, but the soaking rains were in time to prevent any serious deterioration.

Considerable fine hay has been harvested in good condition. All grasses, truck, and small fruits were benefitted by the rains; these crops in the southeast had been hard hit by the five weeks drouth. Apples are doing fairly well; the commercial orchards are about 50 per cent of normal.

The dry, hot weather resulted in no noticeable deterioration in cotton, but the rains were timely; the crop generally is in good shape; squares are beginning to form.

Y. M. C. A. Chinese Delegates Proved Good Fellows

Local College Y. M. C. A. Delegates Return From Conference Held At Hollister.

Floyd Harvey and George Newman returned Monday noon from Hollister, Mo., where they were delegates to the Y. M. C. A. conference.

"Several foreign students were there," reports one of the delegates. "A Filipino, a Brazilian, a Japanese and three Chinese students were at the conference. The Chinese were students from the Missouri University. One interesting thing," he continued, "was the depreciatory attitude which several delegates had toward the Chinese when they first saw them on the station platform, but their attitude changed to one of real fellowship when they got a chance to know them."

As the three Chinese changed cars at Neveda, every fellow said good-bye and wished them good luck. One delegate remarked afterward that if one thing alone were worth the conference, it was his changed attitude toward foreigners and especially the Chinese.

Communication

Editor Democrat-Forum and Tribune:

"We want to know why state road No. 46 goes one mile west of Sheridan and stops with a poster, 'The End of 46, Nodaway and Worth County line.' Now we think this road ought to go on through to Hopkins so these people in this territory could have some of the benefits of our 'auto bond and gas tax.'

"Up to date Independence township does not have one cent of this tax refunded to them in any way. You can drive ten miles in any direction and won't strike a road leading to the county seat that is receiving any benefits from these state taxes. Where is the refund money from the state auto tax spent?

"In my travels over this and Worth County, I see these state employes dragging at the state's expense where no dragging is needed; just putting in their time running over a road that is in perfect repair. As to us living up here in Independence township, we pay our tax just the same as the rest and all we want is just distribution of the same.

"I want some one who knows to tell us what has happened to 46. A state road going out to a county line and stopping doesn't look like good business to us. I think that it up to Nodaway County to see that this road goes on across the county where it belongs and where it would be of great benefit to the farmers that live in this part of the county.

"We would also like to know if it is possible for us to get a part of the refund auto tax spent on some of our roads up here. We think the Chamber of Commerce would be the proper organization to see that 46 goes across the county. Senator Ford, Representative Job or the county court could tell us about the auto refund, as to how it is to be spent.

A Biblical Parabola.

A colored man once appeared before the ordination board of a certain church and requested that he be ordained minister in that particular denomination.

He appeared very ignorant, so the ministerial board asked if he had studied the Bible.

"Oh, yes," he answered, "I'se studied it a lot."

"What is your favorite part?" was the next question.

"Parables is my favorite, suh."

"Would you mind repeating your favorite parable for us?"

The old darky drew a long breath and started in:

"Once when de Queen o' Sheba was gwine down to Jerusalem, she fell among thieves. First dey done pass her by on de othah side, den they come ovah an' say, 'Tho down Jezebel,' but she wouldn't tho' her down. Again dey come ovah an' say, 'Tho' down Jezebel,' and dey still wouldn't tho' her down. Den dey come ovah an' say, 'For de third an' las' time, I say unto you, 'Tho' down Jezebel,' an' dey thowed her down, an' de remains was 'leven baskets full, An' I say unto you, 'Whose wife was she in de resurrection?'"—From Everybody's Magazine for July.

POLAR FLIGHT IS UNDER WAY

DONALD B. MacMILLAN IN COMMAND OF EXPEDITION.

SEARCH FOR AMUNDSEN

Large Crowd Present At Boston Navy Yards To See Exploring Party Set Out For Top Of World.

Boston, June 17.—Commander Donald B. MacMillan's polar dash got under way today. The intrepid flyers hoped to rescue the Amundsen-Ellsworth explorers in the far north in discovering a "hidden continent" north of Alaska, to plant the Stars and Stripes on it and to chart air routes above it.

The first step in the northward dash of MacMillan and his party was the sailing of the exploration steamer, Peary from Boston navy yards at noon today. The sailing of the Peary from historic Charleston came on the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill, which took place within a stone's throw of the navy yards. Thousands of visitors were at the yards. The weather was ideal.

By FOSTER EATON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Boston, June 17.—(United Press)—Bound for the top of the world, the MacMillan-Navy expedition set out today from this port for the Arctic regions, determined to find out if a "lost continent" exists in the 1,000,000 square miles of unexplored territory between Alaska and the North Pole.

Two score mariners of the sea and the air, headed by Lt. Commander Donald B. MacMillan, already famous for his Arctic researches and explorations, are invading the land of the midnight sun, icebergs, a frozen Sahara, and mountains capped with eternal ice.

Aided by the latest genii—radio and the airplane—the explorers are pitting their lives against the last unconquered domain of Nature, in a battle waged on behalf of science.

From Etah, Greenland, which the explorers will reach about August 1, navy fliers will take MacMillan and his scientists in three flights over the unexplored polar regions to claim the "continent" for the United States, for possible use in the future as a way-station for an airline route from Asia to Alaska.

Flights also will be made over the interior of upper Greenland, a frozen waste uncharted by man. Fridtjof Nansen in 1888 crossed the island from east to west at the northern point, but did not report on the general character of the country. The settlements in lower Greenland, of the Vikings, the Norsemen who came to what is now Massachusetts nearly 500 years before Columbus' lookout shouted "Land Ho!" off the island of Salvador in the West Indies, will be explored. The interior of Ellesmere Island, second "farthest north" of all known lands; Labrador and Baffin Island, 200,000 square miles in extent, will be searched out and surveyed by airplane.

Discover New Lands

In Baffin Land, MacMillan expects to discover an extensive lake country, abounding in a rich animal, bird and fish life, with possible species unknown to man. Nomad Eskimos have reported to him strange sights from this wild country of jagged mountains and deep valleys, on which these expectations are based.

From Etah, radio station WNP, established by the expedition, will flash to the world the news of the history-making journeys.

The expedition is fitted out for all emergencies as no polar searching party has ever been outfitted. Two ships will convey the party to its general headquarters at Etah, 700 miles from the Pole. The flying base will be at Cape Hubbard, in Axel Heiburg Land, the "jumping-off" place on the border of the vast unexplored polar sea, nearly 200 miles west of Etah.

The two ships—the famous Bowdoin, an oil-burner built to resist the crashing of the ice-floes, and the Peary, a coal-burner, will leave the United States next Saturday, June 20, at Wiscasset, Me. The Peary is carrying one of the special Loening amphibian planes designed and built for this flight set upon its deck, ready to hop into the water. The other plane of this type is crated in the hold, where a third plane for use in emergencies, also is stored. The seven navy flying experts, under Commander Richard E. Byrd, are on this ship. The scientists of the National Geographic Society, which are sponsoring the expedition with official government sanction, are on the Bowdoin.

From Wiscasset the ships will cruise eastward and then directly north along the coast of Nova Scotia to Sydney, thence north across the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Battle Harbor, in Labrador. Here MacMillan will purchase sleds, fur suits, dogs and other equipment from the natives.

The expedition will follow along the coast of Labrador northward again to Hopedale, and then northeast to Julianehaab (Julian's Head), the old Norse settlements in South Greenland. The path of the Vikings to America was that which the expedition will re-trace.

Norse ruins near Julianehaab and others nearly 100 miles inland from Godthaab (God's Head), which is some distance north on the west coast of the tremendous island, will be explored. The inland settlement has never been adequately surveyed, and the journey from Godthaab by airplane will be the first flight of the expedition. Important evidence of the character and history of the Vikings is expected to be obtained on these journeys.

Then the ships will follow the west Greenland for between 700 and 800 miles directly north to Etah, where the ship base and radio station will be established. From Etah flights will be made over Greenland and Ellesmere Island, for exploration purposes.

Seek New Continent.

Probably not until these preliminary flights have demonstrated the airworthiness of their equipment will the scientists and aviators embark toward their main objective—the exploration of the polar sea in search of the fabulous continent of the North.

From Etah north and west the airplanes, with picked, tested crews and equipment, will fly over Ellesmere Island, to the northwest tip of Axel Heiberg Island, where, on Cape Hubbard, they will establish their headquarters for three or more dashes into the last unexplored and most dangerous of the lands of the earth.

Here, at this "Cape Horn of the North," the explorers will start their flights of from 500 to 750 miles each, over the vast frozen wastes. Their companions will be white wolves, musk oxen and caribua. Conditions for flying are excellent during the summer. If the planes meet disaster, the searchers will be in a dangerous predicament, for the winters are terribly cold. One of the planes, however, probably will be kept at Etah for succor that may be required by the Cape Hubbard delegation.

After these flights have been completed—perhaps within a few weeks if everything is carried out according to schedule,—the entire party will reassemble at Etah and start southward again. The return trip will be made along the western shores of Baffin Bay instead of following the eastern shores as in the northward journey.

A stop will be made at Baffin Island, and extensive flights will be made over the unknown interior, probably from the ship base. The return from Baffin Island will be directly southward to Machvak Bay, Labrador, and down to the home port of Boston again.

The Personnel.

Ten men make up the personnel of the Bowdoin, the "flag-ship" of the expedition. Besides MacMillan, there is included:

Ralph Robinson, chief assistant, Merrimac, Mass.

John Janes, chief engineer, Somerville, Mass.

O. D. Melkon, motion picture operator, South Weymouth, Mass.

John Renartz, radio operator, South Manchester, Conn.

Benjamin H. Riggs, magnetician, U. S. Geodetician, Washington.

M. O. Williams, editorial staff, National Geographic Society, Washington.

About 30 men are on the Peary, seven of whom are the naval aviators. The navy men are:

Lieutenant-Commander Richard E. Byrd, Bureau of Aeronautics, in charge; Lieutenant, junior grade, M. A. Schur, naval air station, Pensacola, Fla.; Chief Boatswain L. E. Reber, naval aircraft factory, Annapolis, Md.; and the following enlisted men: Aviation Pilot A. C. Nold, Anacostia air station, District of Columbia; Chief Aerographer Albert C. Francis, San Diego Air station, and First Class Machinist First Mate Charles F. Rochville, San Diego air station. All enlisted men except Francis are both pilots and mechanics.

Others on the Peary include: Capt. George Steele, Roxbury, Mass. Dean Publico, chief engineer, Somerville, Mass.; P. D. Davidson, second engineer, Portland, Me.; L. Hosner Freeman, mate, South Weymouth, Mass.; E. F. McDonald, Zenith Radio Company, Chicago, in charge of wireless; and a photographer, a physician and several other attaches.

In surveying the equipment of this expedition, the natural comparison is with the wooden ships the Vikings forced against the ice in the old centuries. The deckless, light boats were ill-fitted to fight the relentless ice-pack; they had no power except oars and crude sails; no charts, no sextant, no chronometer; not even a compass. The 1925 adventurers are in the Bowdoin, with watertight decks, white-oak timbers, sheated with ironwood and reinforced forward with steel sheathing. The ship has comfortable cabins, electrically lighted; she has charts, sextants, chronometers and spirit compasses corrected for deviation to the tenth of a point.

The airplanes will carry condensed supplies of food sufficient to keep their crews for many weeks in case of a forced landing. Condensed beef, barley and oats, a small ration of which is enough for sustenance, make up most of the provisions. Small tents and a rubber canoe also will be placed in each plane for emergencies.

The planes each have a carrying capacity of 2,200 pounds, including a pilot and an observer, camera and radio equipment, and enough gasoline for a 1,000 mile flight. The maximum speed is 120 miles an hour, and altitudes of 17,000 feet have been reached in test flights.

Either skiis or wheels or pontoons can be used at will by the pilots in landing on snow and ice, the earth, or the sea. The engines are a radical departure from standard practice in that the power plant—a 400 horsepower Liberty engine—is installed upside down. This enables a very compact arrangement with a minimum of wind resistance. The landing wheels fold back into the hull or pontoon of the ship by pressure of a lever in the pilot's seat. The hull is entirely covered with metal.

During the long 'exploration flights' motion-picture cameras, operated by a small motor, will continually photograph the land or sea underneath, through a glass porthole in the bottom of the hull of the plane.

Radio Programs.

The radio experiment was first made from the Arctic two years ago by MacMillan, and his reports were heard in many parts of the nation. This time, however, "programs" are planned, a leading feature of which will be Eskimo music, which is probably the most primitive music in the world. The "music" is sung by two Eskimo men, in chorus, swaying their bodies and snapping their heads back, with an intonation and time-beat not unlike that of the tom-toms of Africa and the South Seas.

The land the flyers seek in the unknown Arctic will be claimed in the name of the United States if it is found to really exist. The planes will alight and place the Stars and Stripes on the earth and record as best they can the size and shape of the land, principally with their map-making airplane cameras.

The discovery of the fabulous island, which has been termed 'Crocker Land' and 'Harris Land,' by explorers who deduced its existence, will be almost certain to lead to a controversy between Canada and the United States over its possession.

A Canadian order-in-council, issued in 1916, claimed all land north of that country. The 1,000,000 square miles to be explored by this expedition is located between the North Pole and Canada and Alaska. The mysterious land may be north of either or both countries.

If found by the MacMillan expedition, however, the United States probably will have a valid claim, as international law generally requires discovery or colonization, or both, for substantiation of sovereignty claims over new land.

The value of the hypothetical land is principally as a base for possible military and commercial occident-to-the orient airways of the future.

Major-General A. W. Greely, dean of living polar explorers, generally is credited with first advancing the "polar continent" theory. On the famous ill-fated exploration when 18 of the 25 members of his party starved to death at Cape Sabine, on Ellesmere Island, in 1883, Greely observed peculiar flat-topped icebergs with well-marked stratifications floating out of the Polar Sea.

Such icebergs come from relatively smooth land where the yearly layers of snow are not broken up, and as no such bergs have been found in Greenland or the known lands of the north, he advanced the theory that a flat, level island existed in the unknown area. Other experts, including Capt. Harris, a tidal authority, advanced the same opinion. Harris found the tides arrived at the outlets of the Polar Sea at periods six hours later than they would have if they followed an unobstructed course across the open sea. He calculated from this that the island was of tremendous size.

Peary in one of his trips observed from Cape Hubbard, Alex Heiberg Land, what appeared to be a level stretch of land to the westward. He reported the site, estimating that it lay 120 miles to the westward.

MacMillan on a later voyage started from the same point westward in an attempt to reach the land, which he also "saw." He drove across the ice westward 150 miles in a week, at the end of which the vision was as far away as it was at Cape Hubbard.

Some scientists believe MacMillan and Peary may have seen a mirage across the barren northland wastes. Others, including MacMillan, believe that it may have been a reflection of the faraway land in the sky, as is common in many desert countries.

"Lost" Land of North.

Ellsmere Island, at the head of Baffin Bay, a "lost land" of the north, will supply one of the most interesting surveys to the explorers. This long island was found by William Baffin, who was the first authentic polar explorer, in 1616. It was not "found" again until 1852 by white men. Various explorers found different peninsulas and bays independently, calling them by separate names, and it was not until recently that its inclusiveness was discovered.

Ellesmere Island lacks 50 miles of being the northernmost known land, that distinction being held by Cape Morris Jesup, Greenland, a little to the east. The island includes what is known as "Grant Land," "Grinnell Land," "North Lincoln Land," "King Oscar Land," "Bear Cape Land," and "Jesup Land."

The northern point of the island, Cape Columbia, is famous as the starting point of Admiral Peary in his successful dash to the Pole in 1909. The island is 500 miles long and 300 miles wide at its point of greatest width. Its southern point is 2,000 miles north of the United States-Canada moundary.

Deep fiords extending far inland have enabled explorers to cross the island by boats, supplemented by dog-sled.

Dances

Mrs. Rose Harris, an inmate of the Orthodox Jewish Home for the Aged at Cleveland, was born in 1819, but when her 106th birthday came she danced the ancient Hungarian dance—the Czardas—with more spirit than any other inmate present. Incidentally, she was still dancing when the others, tired, had quit.

Muster Day Time for Citizens to Learn Duties in "Common Defense"

The following questions and answers were written by Major M. A. Palen of the regular army with headquarters at Omaha, Neb., in regard to Defense Day.

Many questions have been asked regarding the reasons for the Defense Test, to be held on Muster Day, July 4th, 1925, and it is surprising to know that a large number of citizens throughout the country are not acquainted with it's purposes and what it stands for. The following questions are often asked:

Question 1. What is Defense Day?

Answer 1. Defense Day or Muster Day is a designated time when citizens of the United States and the military personnel of the United States are called upon to show their patriotism, their preparedness, their strength in case they should be called upon in a national emergency, and the quickness with which they can respond to a call and show their wilingness to defend their country if the need should ever arise.

It is also the time when the people are given an opportunity to learn their duties and obligations as American citizens in the "Common Defense," and to know something of the tasks every man, woman and child will have to perform in the event of a national emergency. It is a day on which we try out certain defense plans drawn up pursuant to the National Defense Act of June 1920.

Question 2. What will I gain by participation in Muster Day?

Answer 2. All persons participating in Muster Day will have the personal satisfaction of knowing that they have shown their willingness to aid their country if in need; that they have answered the call of the President of the United States and assured him of their loyalty and patriotism and with the success of Muster Day; that they have individually played their part in making all the countries of the world look upon the United States as a Nation united to promote peace.

Whether we like it or not, any modern war in which great Nations are opposed is no longer a contest in which only armed forces are involved. It is the direct concern of every man, woman and child in the belligerent countries and each must play his part in war in accordance with National needs. As every individual is ultimately concerned, it is only fair and just to him and to the State that he be fully advised of the national plans for defense and the part assigned to him therein. It is also desirable that he understand those plans when no war is in prospect in order that he and his fellows, who constitute the body politic, may move in a prescribed way toward their amendment if deemed advisable.

There is probably no surer way of enlisting a man's aid in maintaining peace than to bring home to him a realization of the fact that a war would involve him and his family. This, the Defense Test on Muster Day, will help do.

Tells of Progress of Work at Brethern Church Near Sheridan

The following is the text of an address by C. P. Dowis of Sheridan delivered from radio broadcasting station KFNF at Shenandoah on Sunday afternoon.

"Good afternoon everybody:

"Truly, this affords us great pleasure in having the privilige to talk to you for a few minutes this afternoon. With your permission, however, we wish to deture in our subject matter slightly.

"We have been listening in on the air long before KFNF began broadcasting; therefore we have heard the first program from this station. First a few days ago we heard Mr. Field, chief announcer, say to his friends that they would see them at the Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska state fairs. Thus, leaving Missouri out. This reminds us of a story told some time ago. You all know that there was a dispute between Iowa and Missouri over the boundary line during their early days. A widow lady lived in this disputed territory which was settled in the United States Supreme Court in favor of Iowa. The widow I have heretofore mentioned, was immediately notified that she now lived in the State of Iowa. She then remarked that she was very glad indeed, since it was so sickly down in Missouri.

"Now Mr. KFNF and listeners, it may be sickly down in Missouri, but here are a few facts I don't want you to overlook. There are more people living in Missouri than Iowa and Nebraska, or Kansas and Nebraska, or Iowa and Kansas, or any other state west of the Mississippi River. And, I believe, there are more programs put on at KFNF by Missouri folks than any other state exclusive of Iowa. We, incidentally, cordially invite you to come down to Sedalia to our State Fair. You might think more of us.

"That reminds us of a story we once heard a friend tell of an old man and lady who did not get along well together. The old Gentleman did not like his mother-in-law very well. His wife took sick and thought she would not get well; so she called her husband to her bedside and told him she wanted him to grant her one request before she died. The request was that the "old gentleman "ride by his mother-in-law's side at her funeral. He finally told her that he would but that "it would sure spoil the day for him."

"Now it might be of interest to some to know who we are and where we are from. We are known as "the Honey Creek Community Center," Church of the Brethren, located two and one-half miles southwest of Sheridan, in Nodaway County, Mo. This church was organized some forty years ago; then, after the railroad was built and the town of Sheridan started, two other churches organized in town. This country church detoriated, in respect to membership and the church building itself, until there were only four members left: C. H. Dukes and wife, Mrs. B. Young and Mrs. Wm. H. Clark. The church was closed for quite a long time; but the industrious people who live in this community, soon saw that we could not give our families as good a church privilege as we had once had providing we continued to let this church property go down. So some few years ago we gathered together and organized Sunday School and began to cast about for a good preacher and a community man. We enlisted the support of the Northwest Missouri Church of the Brethern Mission Board, who came to us very liberally. About four years ago we tried out several men who had been recommended to us. We finally selected a Brother L. A. Walker from Mt. Etna, Ia., formerly from Adell, Ia. And with the assistance of such men as Brother Rowe and Sister Adia Scholds of Adell, Ia., Brother Swallow of Minnesota, Brother Oliver and Sister Austin of McPherson, Kan., the work has made wonderful progress from four members to over one hundred members in less than four years with property all fixed up, a new basement with furnace heat installed, and a full line for everything necessary for the purpose of serving luncheon, hot or cold. We are now using all of our minister's time and have been holding annual chautauquas and expect to entertain the North District of Missouri annual meeting.

"There may be other communities that have done as well as we have, but we don't know where they are. It might be of interest to you to mention something about the people and their occupation. This is a strictly farming and stock raising district with farm land as rich as the valley of the Nile. We do not believe there is a place in the United States which has any better men or women in it, and where there's as many pure-bred and grandchampion livestock than there is within five miles of the church. I might mention some of the men on whose farms the State Fairs, Internationals, and Royal winners roam: They are as follows: Herefords, Jesse Engle and Sons, A. C. Scott and Sons, Lulu Jenkins and Sons, Albert Wilson and Son, Chas. Wilson, W. Gray, Curry Brothers, E. E. Dowis, C. P. Dowis and Sons, Sidney Sanders, Lacy Jenkins.

"The Shorthorn men are: A. O. Stanley, Tom Payne, Cooper Bros., Bainum Bros. In the swine department, all breeds are represented, especially the S. P. C. The Grand Champion of this breed at the American Royal, 1924, is now eating grass on the farm of C. P. Dowis and Sons. The Cooper Bros. hold some prize winners in the Durocs.

"Can you expect anything but a progressive community with men and women like these living in it?"

Tennis Tournament at St. Louis Next Month

Is Second Time In Successive Years That Event Has Been Held at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., June 17.—(United Press)—For the second time in successive years the National Clay Court Tennis Tournament will be here, beginning July 11.

The tournament last year was an unqualified success with the greatest of American players in action on local courts. Big Bill Tilden romped away with the singles championship and the Kinsey brothers from California won out in the doubles championship.

It is considered likely that the Kinseys will be back into the meet this year and there is a probability that Tilden will venture west to defend his title.

Other players of national and international importance have signifed their intention of entering the national event here.

Brian I. C. Norton, former South African Davis Cup player who is now a St. Louisian, will be the strong entry for St. Louis, with a number of local players also entered in the meet. Kansas City also is expected to send a group of their best net men for the tournament.

MacMillan to Flash News of Amundsen

Boston, June 17.—(United Press)—"If we find Amundsen the word will be flashed back to the United States within five minutes" Lieutenant Commander Donald B. MacMillan, whose exhibition leaves for North Greenland this week, said at a luncheon in his honor here.

"Two hours after arriving at Etah and establishing our base we hope to be at Fort Conger, 90 miles south of Cape Columbia, and one of three places where Amundsen can be found. The others are Cape Columbia and Cape Morris Jessup. If Amundsen't expedition was forced down at the pole all undoubtedly are lost."

Higher Education Is Gaining Ground

Columbia, Mo., June 17.—(United Press)—Higher education is gaining ground according to authorities at the University of Missouri.

They base their belief on the steady growth of the graduate school of the University of Missouri and the summer session now has more students than ever before in history. More than 400 men and women, a majority of them teachers, are taking work towards a Masters Degree.

The outstanding growth is due to three principal reasons Dr. D. J. Elliff, director of the summer session said. They include:

1. The state, in its program of education, is gradually raising its standards and spreading the idea of a more thorough foundation for teachers.

2. The teachers are attempting to make their standards of preparation meet the state standards.

3. The improved curriculum and increased personnel of the graduate school.

St. Louis Golfer Is Doped as Champion

Eddie Held Stands Out As One of Strongest Contenders In Annual State Tournament at Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo., June 17.—(United Press)—The peers of Missouri golfing tee off today in the annual state tournament over the fast Lakewoor course.

For two days crack golfers from over the state have been here "warming up" over the course and records of the course have been cracked.

Eddie Held of St. Louis stands out as the prominent player in the tournament and is counted one of the strong contenders for the title. Held cracked the course record by shooting a 69 which was two strokes under the record established some time ago by Cameron Nesbitt, a Lakewood golfer.

Two other St. Louis golfers have been shooting exhibition rounds in a manner to make them outstanding bidders for the state championship. Jimmy Manion and Lawson Watts are the other St. Louisians shooting in phenomenal fashion.

Several of Kansas City's best have been turning in good averages over the Lakewood course.

While speaking your mind you must mind your speaking or you will be spoken to about it.

Young But Chivalrous.

THE KEY TO SUCCESS

Success depends primarily on a healthy liver and stomach. You can not think straight if these organs are not working properly. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is usually successful in such cases. Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. At all druggists.—Adv.

Couldn't Fool Charlie.

Up in the Ozarks there was a hill billy who had a family of twenty-one boys. He and his wife drove to town once a year for supplies, but the rest of the family had never seen a sidewalk. The oldest boy, who was twenty four years old, had never had a haircut or shave in his life and never looked in a mirror.

On the annual trip to town the old man picked up a looking-glass at the store and stuck it inside a crate, with the remark, "Maw, it's time the young uns seen theirselves." Back home the boys rushed out to the wagon, looking for candy and peanuts. There was a burst of guffaws from the oldest boy who was staring in the crate at the looking-glass.

"Charlie, what you-all laffin' at," demanded one of the other boys.

"Nawthun," said Charlie, still cackling.

"Charlie, what ails you?" demanded his mother.

"'Tain't nawthun', Maw," drawled Charlie.

"Charlie, if you don't tell me, I'm a-goin' to whup ye," she snapped.

"Aw, well, Maw," said he, "I'll tell ye. Paw's bought a wolf."—From Everybody's Magazine for July.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington—A big tariff fight looms in the offing. Present customs rates are a lot too high, in the opinion of some mighty powerful "interests."

These "interests are not the kind to sit still and make the best of what they don't like. Desiring tariff revision downward, they mean to try for it.

Every indication is that they will do this at the next session of Congress.

The protected "interests," on the other hand, will put up a scrap to prevent it that will make the welkin ring to beat all records. In fact, it may be THE big muss in Washington next winter.

Considering how overwhelmingly the party of protection won the last election, all this may seem queer.

Yet, stopping to think about it, one recalls that there have been hints for quite a while of something simmering.

For instance, when the cotton spinners, in convention here a few weeks ago, suggested a higher tariff wall, why did President Coolidge shut them up with that Aesop story?—of the dog who, crossing a bridge with a bone in his mouth, saw his reflection in the water, mistook it for another dog, grabbed at the latter's bone and lost his own overboard in doing so.

Then along came "The Magazine of Wall Street" with the prediction that "within 18 months we shall be in the throes of the most sweeping general revision of the tariff we have ever known."

And now we have George B. Lockwood's "National Republic," which speaks for old-line Republicanism if any publication does, calling for a "thorough campaign of education" to to prevent such a "national disaster."

The revision movement's inspiration is America's group of big bankers—the ones with huge foreign investments, notably war loans.

"Within a year," according to "The Magazine of Wall Street," "the consuming masses will begin to rally to the standard of our international bankers and against the manufacturers."

The outcome remains to be seen of course, but one thing's certain, the "interests" referred to by the Wall Street publication aren't to be sneezed at.

If they've set their hearts on tariff reduction, though they may not get it, the ultra-protectionists will know they've been in a first-class row by the time it's ended.

The banker's idea is easy enough to understand. When President Harding took office and the Republicans had everything their own way, as traditional protectionists their first act was to put the tariff 'way up.

There was some talk at the time to the effect that this was going to make it hard for Europe to pay her debts to America—she hadn't the money and the tariff wall would prevent her from paying in goods.

Still the manufacturers wanted it, the farmers thought they did and the bankers evidently resolved to give it a trial, without kicking much.

Now, however, clearly they've made up their minds that it's failed.

They've received practically no interest, to say nothing of principal, from any of their old world debtors except England, and lately even the British have begun intimating they can't keep it up indefinitely on the present basis.

The tariff, while tremendously important, generally is a dry, tiresome, technical subject, but there ought to be some real thrills in a battle over it, with "high finance" on one side, as challenger, and "big business," in the role of titleholder, on the other.

The Dentist's Dilemma.

A youth seated himself in a dentist's chair. He wore a wonderful shirt of striped silk and an even more wonderful checked suit. His shoes were a loud tan and he wore a bright red tie. He had the vacant stare that goes with these.

"I'm afraid to give him gas," the dentist said to his asistant.

"Why?" asked the assistant who was attending them.

"Well," said the dentist, "how will I know when he is anconscious?"—From Everybody's Magazine for July.

Next day the two met again.

"Well," said George, "who won the prize?"

"I won the first prize," said the farmer. "Wasn't I lucky?"

"Who won the second?"

"My wife won the second; wasn't she lucky?"

"And who won the third?" queried George patiently.

"My darter; wasn't she lucky? By the way you haven't paid your two dollars yet."

"No," said George. "Wasn't I lucky?"—From Everybody's Magazine for July.
